The Incarnation of Christ

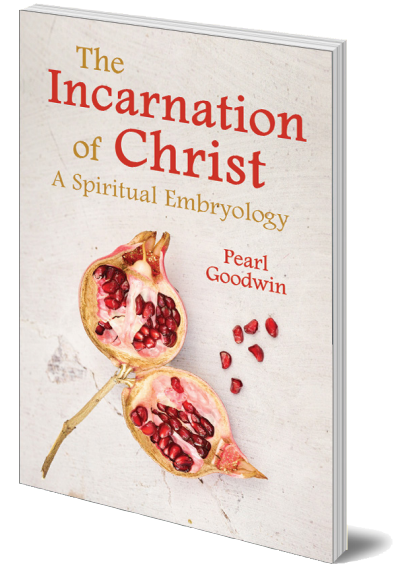

A Spiritual Embryology

PEARL GOODWIN

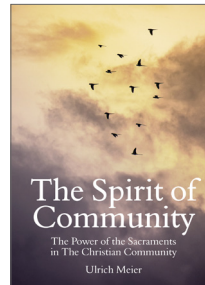

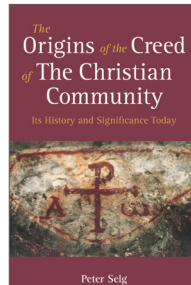

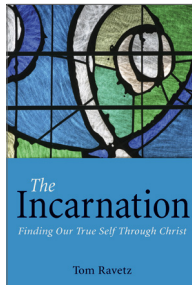

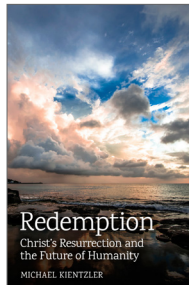

A fascinating and original approach to the spiritual and earthly aspects of human existence

- Explores the stages of a spiritual embryology and suggests that the creation of a physical human body is echoed in the creation of Christ's resurrection body
- Insightful chapters explore birth in the Gospel of Matthew, the spiritual background of Luke's account, Jesus' conversation with Mary, and more
- Goodwin is uniquely qualified to discuss this approach as both an academic and a Christian Community priest

Pearl Goodwin studied embryology and genetics at the University of Edinburgh and later worked at MIT in the United States. In 1977 she was ordained as a priest of The Christian Community, and for many years taught embryology at The Christian Community seminary in Stuttgart, Germany. She is now retired and lives in Forest Row, UK.
